How Dicky Had Come to tiriet White Dreming

I rushed into the hedroom to finpicturesque objurgations. fainty dresser cover was half on, half off the bureau. It was seaked with tollet water, ameared with cold cream fare powder, and on the floor I with diamay the broken fragnents of cut glass and chins.

Dicky and I are compelled to share the single bureau, something we both detent, and I have kept all dainty things in my fitted bag. put on the bureau only the plainest and most serviceable of dresser scarfs in obedience to his preferences But because of our expected guests, I had pushed Dicky's thing back as much as I dared, and docked the dresser top bravely. Any housewife ho prizes her possessions knows how near I was to angry, rebellious tears. But even as I grasped at the dresser scarf to keep the pitiful remnants of my treasures from sliding to the por, I forced my lips to a duitful

I can't find a thing of mine, and when I flually located my collar box, pulled it over her, it stuck and the whole mess came down. Look at These trousers will have to go to the tallor, pronto."
A Trying Moment

I had been only angry and chagrined before, but a note of bitterness entered my feeling at this point. He knew how I prized my ernaments, he knew also how I worked to make the apartment attractive for the coming of the guests. but he had uttered no word of regret for the damage he had done. There had been nothing but concern for his own clothing, and censure for And I knew as well as if I had been standing next to him, that the whole thing was the result of his own carelessness. I could visualize the im patience with which he had jerked the collar box toward him.

"Luckily, you have two pairs o trousers for that suit." I remarked "And if you don't mind taking care of that finger in the bath m. I'H try to clean up here." I was turning up my skirt and fastening it in the manner least calculated to crumple it, as I spoke another glance without Dieky, I reached past him into my part of the wardrobe, took down a

It is remarkable how many cases have been reported similar to this one. Many mothers are left in a weakened and run-down condition after the birth of the child, and for such mothers the care of the baby is well-nigh impossible. Not only is it hard for the mother, but the child itself will indirectly suffer.
